ARROWHEAD

For 1948

Published by
The Senior Class of Burlington High School

Dedication

The Arrowhead for 1948 is respectfully dedicated to two faculty members of Burlington High School.

We, the Seniors, thank Miss Claire Billings for her untiring effort in helping us to publish our yearbook, and for her helpful suggestions whenever we needed ideas for social affairs.

We express our appreciation to Mr. Francis McDermott for his skillful direction of our minstrel show, and for the many times when, as Junior class adviser, he helped to make our dances successful.

To these teachers, the 1948 Arrowhead is dedicated in token of our gratitude.

JEROME J. LYNCH

To the Seniors:

It is with a deep sense of gratitude that I wish each and every one of you success and happiness in whatever field of endeavour you find yourself after graduation. Your splendid cooperation accorded me during my first year as a superintendent, I shall never forget.

As you leave the portals of Burlington High, carry with you the principles inculcated in you. In particular hold steadfast to the tenet, "Know thyself", for your success and happiness will be determined by it. Having this virtue, you will be honest with yourself and with others. Those of you who continue your formal education on a full or part-time basis will realize that it means hard work; those who enter employment of any nature will understand that it requires giving your employer a full day's labor. Finally, it will make for a citizen of the type that this great country of ours deserves.

Class Poem

Is this now our parting of the ways?
Shall we nevermore meet again?
Or is this a door to newer days,
To a newer road with an unknown end?
Shall we, when at the crossroads, tarry?
Then, undecided which way to go
Shall we trust that God the load will carry
When we sorrows, death, and heartaches know?
We shall tread paths others ne'er have trod,
Always striving to gain our goal,
Keeping sacred our faith in God
And ne'er doubting Him within our soul.
As the years roll by in life's endless tide
We'll search for the footprints of Him,
Our Guide.

Caroline Neilsen

Class Song

There's a tear in our eye
As we leave Burlington High,
 To travel the road of life.
For the way has been cleared
Of the things we have feared,
 We have only to walk in the Light.

Farewell — Farewell
Our days in school are o'er
Farewell — Farewell
But sweet mem'ries will live forever more.

Class Will

We, the Class of 1948, being uncertain about almost everything (including the Future), do hereby individually leave our most cherished possessions, attributes, and qualities to those who will find the most use for them.

I, Lawrence Azevedo, leave my ability to stay out of school and still pass, to Dorothy Norden.

I, Joyce Bayliss, leave my freckles to Beatrice Kendall. Hope they don't get in the way, Bea!

I Barbara Bitzer, leave my ability to get to school early, to Evelyn Miller. It's a good idea, Evy. It keeps you out of Detention Hall.

I, Helen Cabral, leave my curly locks to Randall Hurley. Hope you can manage them, Nick.

I, Marie Chaplin, leave to Barbara Pattison my ability to make a whole wardrobe of clothes in Home Economics periods. I hope you do better than I did!!

I, Jean Clark, leave my front seat in English class to any Junior who wishes it. (No shoving now!)

We, Norman DeMone and Jimmy Rogers, leave to Dick Garibotto and Bill Hurley our ability to sing opera in all the minstrel shows in Burlington. We hope they put it to better use than we did.

I, Lila Dupee, leave my ability to drive carefully (?-!) to Margaret Rogers. (Be sure you have your boots on.) I leave the car to Mabel Johnson. It always was a long walk home, wasn't it, Bill?

I, Eleanor Ekwall, leave my ability to be quiet, to Blanche Murray. Hope it comes in handy, Blanche.

I, Donald Ellsworth, hereby leave the Ping-pong championship to Jack Moglia.

I, Margaret Ellsworth, leave my ability to make up tall stories when they are needed, to Chuck Rupprecht. Hope you keep out of as much trouble as I have, Chuck.

I, Kenneth Foster, do hereby leave to John Maguire my job of washing tables. Keep them clean, John.

I, Marion Galinos, leave to Lenny Gustafson my ability to jitterbug.

I, Jacqueline Graham, leave my ability to think up excuses for getting out of classes, to "Chickey" Meaney.

I, Francis Gentile, leave my beautiful wave to Henry Lowther. Keep it set, Kid!!

I, Arthur Gould, leave my nickname "Steamboat" to Robert MacKenzie. It may give him speed.

I, Leo Govoni, leave my ability (?) to argue with the teachers to Ruth Matto.

I, Lorraine Govoni, leave my ability to get along with teachers to Bobby Johnson. Maybe it will help the detention situation, Bobby.

I, Ethel Jones, leave to Burton Betts, my last pair of bobby sox. Hope they look as well on you as on me, Burt.

I, Margaret Keating, leave to Jean Crogan my ability to talk. Keep it up, Gracie. You're doing all right.

I, Mary Marinacci, leave my cozy snoozes in classes, to George Charrette.

I, Joan McGowan, leave to Bill Wallace, my size 4 shoe. Small wonder, Bill.

I, Helen McLaughlin, leave to the next chemistry class a small bottle of T. N. T. Use it as you see fit.

I, Dorothy Murray, leave my porch to Claire Colley. She already has the swing.

I, Caroline Neilsen, leave my place on honors (as vacant as it has always been) to Priscilla Johnson.

I, George Perkins, leave to anyone willing to make use of it, my secret formula for sleeping with my eyes open. It comes in handy in dull classes.

I, Janice Reed, being of sound mind (?), leave to Lorraine Nelson all the names I have received on my trip through school; namely, Homely, Shorty, Peanut, Sliver, and some that could not get past the censors.

Signed and sealed in the presence of responsible witnesses, this 5th day of June, One Thousand Ninteen Hundred and Forty-eight.

Prophecy

The prophecy for the Class of "48" is amazingly strange. Phenomenal ideas and dreams of the future come to those who indulge in the smoking of opium. Being a habitual addict, I am an expert on the wonders of this drug. Last evening as I sat at home inhaling the fumes, a heavy mist closed over my consciousness and transferred it into the subconscious. As the mist began to settle I found myself on a street corner by a newstand. Buying a paper, I found the year to be 1958, and the metropolis, Burlington. In banner headlines on the editorial page I noticed a scathing article against "The Slums of Burlington," written by that noted crusader against social evil, Lila Dupee, the owner and publisher of Burlington's most important newspaper.

Turning to the comics, I read my favorite strip, "Little Agnes" by that noted cartoonist, Fearless Foster. While looking over the classified gossip section, I noticed a headline. It stated, "Francis Gentile is lecturing this evening at the Burlington University. His subject will be, 'The Finer Points of Old English Lettering.' "

I slipped the paper in my pocket and proceeded down the boulevard. As I passed a dark alley a low voice accosted me from a deep shadow. "Hey, Bud, gotta dime for a cup of java?" I turned around and came face to face with my old classmate, Georgie Perkins. His clothes were tattered and torn, and he looked as though he hadn't eaten a decent meal in a week. He told me that ever since he found he couldn't marry Betty Grable, he had completely lost his mind. Since I was famished myself, we entered Mary Marinacci's Halfsome. She made her first million working in the Wholesome, and set up a competitive business of her own. While we were waiting for our order, George said he was just about ready to move to Jimmie's Place. Mr. Rogers was proprietor of the Modernistic Mortician Service. His favorite slogan was, "All our business is on the level."

After gorging ourselves with Mary's fine Raviolis, we walked up the street to the Opera House. There, Janice Reed and her thirty-five male musicians were playing Romanoff's Fifth Symphony. The show was an excellent one, but being anxious to see the rest of the city, George and I left early and continued up the boulevard. After walking a block and a half, we came upon a theater. The name of the picture was "The Red-Head Walks at Midnight" starring Joan McGowan and Don Ellsworth. Of course Don played the part of the Red Head, and Joan played the part of a notorious gangster. It was quite a picture. Across from the theater was a beauty salon managed by Jackie Graham and Marie Chaplin. They said it got quite boring waiting on women all day so they built their establishment of glass, enabling them to see the men walking by. Next door to the salon was a women's haberdashery where Barbara Bitzer and Helen Cabral created the latest styles in women's hats.

Their creations were used to frighten difficult children.

As George and I always liked a little recreation we left the business section of town and headed for the amusement center. Upon entering the gym, we were reminded by a poster that Joyce "The Killer" Bayliss was wrestling "The Thin Girl," who was none other than Helen McLaughlin. Joyce weighed 176 while Helen carried about 250 pounds.

We passed through the corridor and on to the basketball court. There, two teams were battling it out for the championship. One belonged to Margaret Ellsworth, and the other to "Mr. X." They made so much money with their basketball teams they opened a night club down town and called it the X-Ell. Their favorite performers were Galinos and Neilsen. Marian played the piano while Caroline sang and danced.

While we were doing a few exercises in the gym, Secretary of State, Leo Govoni, entered for his daily exercise. He told us that Marcie Jones and Margaret Keating joined the "Wacs" to be closer to their husbands in the Navy.

Having worked up quite an appetite in the gym, we walked across the street to Eleanor's Swedish Restaurant. After Eleanor got out of school she replaced Mrs. Rogers as Representative. With the millions she made, she retired and built a restaurant. She had the finest Swedish food in Burlington. Ethel Jones provided entertainment for Ekwall's restaurant with her forty piece "Hill-billy Band."

After leaving the restaurant, we crossed town searching for the Steamship Company. There, "Steamboat" Gould owned his own lines and did quite a flourishing business. Larry Azevedo had become a pilot and helped "Steamboat" out with his transportation.

Having seen most of the city, we headed back to the residential part of town where Burlington University was situated. When we entered the University, Miss Govoni, the secretary, told us that Miss Clark, the Superintendent, was out on official business. However we roamed around the corridors and looked in several of the classrooms. In the Art class, Dorothy Murray was doing a fine piece of work teaching the pupils how to draw curves and angles. She told us she worked part time at Marinacci's Halfsome, because she was donating her artistic talents as an act of charity.

As we looked over the class of "'48" we found that Norman DeMone, an old married man, was still trying to get out of the twelfth grade. He said he was going to wait for his son to catch up with him.

As the effects of the opium wore off, the vision of the future gradually grew dim. I quickly seized a piece of paper and jotted down the facts which had been revealed. Let us hope the class of '48 will look with satisfaction upon the shining careers awaiting them.

Norman DeMone

History of Class of '48

This version of the activities of the "48'ers" commences when the class moved into the Junior High School. After completing the first six grades in the old Union School, the class moved into the more dignified Junior High School, under the strict and helpful guidance of Miss Andrews.

In our initial year at the high school, Leo Govoni and Margaret Keating added to our joys. Our instructors were Mr. Shea and Miss Andrews, for the large class was divided between two rooms.

During the eighth grade, our home room teacher, Mrs. Adams, did much to furnish the class with fundamentals, and showered us with many personal favors. She continued to be a friend and adviser to the class throughout her stay at Burlington. It was in this eventful year that Mary Marinacci joined the class.

Mr. O'Conner was with us for the first month of our Freshman year and was succeeded by Mr. Lalli. The jester, Helen McLaughlin, joined the class this year, making many days of school a little brighter.

The class entered the senior high school with one of the best reputations a class has had. There were many humorous incidents we shared with Mr. Lalli, our adviser, during the year. For instance, no one will forget the lively biology classes, nor the fun all had on the class outing to Nantasket with Miss Haglund and Mr. Lalli. It was during this grade that Larry Azevedo and Don Ellsworth joined the class.

In the eleventh grade we had the pleasure of having Mr. McDermott as our class adviser, and he proved a friend to all. He gave us much useful information on many subjects, increasing our knowledge of baseball appreciably. Lila Dupee came back to the class in the Junior year.

In our Senior year we were headed by Mr. Murray. The class made quite a few novel and outstanding accomplishments, including the sponsoring of a minstrel show, Senior play, and Senior week.

We like to think of this twelve years of successful schooling as the first step on the path to success. This was possible only through the splendid cooperation of our instructors.

Thus, in accordance with the motto, the members of the class have made their first break in life by obtaining a high school diploma.

Student Council

Row 2: J. Moglia, W. Wallace, G. Perkins, E. Kindred.

Row 1: E. Witthohn, Mr. Lynch, D. Ellsworth, M. Horton, M. Ellsworth.

The Student Council for 1948 had a rather late beginning. It was a representative group made up of pupils elected by the student body. Each of the three high school classes selected one classmate to serve as its spokesman, and, in addition, the Junior High was allowed one candidate. To complete the group, three other pupils were chosen by the school as a whole.

The primary purpose of the Student Council was to meet with school authorities and lay before them any difficulties, problems or suggestions which affected the Burling-ton pupils. The Student Council was the "voice" of the student body.

Athletic Association

Row 2: H. Small, R. Garibotto, J. Kinneen, K. Foster.

Row 1: M. Ellsworth, D. Ellsworth, Mr. Horton, G. Perkins, J. Foster.

After a late start, the Athletic Association was organized and was proving successful at this writing. It consisted of the captains of the various teams and three representatives from the student body.

The football season proved a drain on available funds, but the basketball season more than made up for it. No season tickets for the basketball games were sold this year. Instead, tickets were sold which entitled the bearer to see only the two Alumni games. A little extra money was added to the account by the sale of ice cream in the cafeteria. The final standing of the AA, however, must remain undetermined until the close of the baseball season.

Football Team

Row 2: M. Horton, Mr. Murray, R. Gentile, H. Folsom, G. Charette, F. Graham, J. Rogers, W. Wallace, J. Kinneen, K. Foster, C. Rupprecht, R. Garibotto, W. Hurley, R. Sheerin, C. Gillis, N. DeMone, E. Collins, D. Ellsworth.

Row 1: J. Pattison, E. Pedersen, W. Carroll, J. Pedersen, R. Swanson, R. Bunton, B. Kelley, J. Casey, E. Kindred, J. Kerivan, D. Piper.

Center: J. Merrigan.

The 1947 football season will stand out in the minds of all as one of the best Burlington has ever experienced. The team closed its schedule with a total of 4 wins and 4 defeats.

Two factors were responsible for this excellent record. First, the expert coaching and untiring efforts of Mr. Edward Murray kept the boys in excellent physical condition. Second, the spirit of cooperation which the team itself displayed aided in the training process. Burlington was truly proud of the excellent showing the boys made this season.

The scores were as follows:

Burlington 0	Dracut 19
Burlington 13	Ayer 6
Burlington 0	Wilmington 19
Burlington 8	Keith Academy 0
Burlington 7	Tewksbury 20
Burlington 13	Groton 6
Burlington 7	Saint Mary's 26
Burlington 0	Howe 20
Burlington 7	Alumni 6

Boys' Basketball

Row 2: Mr. McDermott, J. Pedersen, J. Moglia, S. Cripps, W. Carroll, R. Daly, L. Beard, E. Kindred.

Row 1: E. Pedersen, B. Kelley, W. Wallace, J. Rogers, G. Perkins, R. Garibotto, N. DeMone, D. Ellsworth, E. Taylor, J. Maguire.

This year's basketball team had a very busy season, though a rather unsuccessful one, with only four wins in sixteen starts. However, a number of their games were lost by only a few baskets. The boys, although trailing badly at times, never gave up hope and never stopped fighting until the final horn blew. In every game they proved that they were a hard-fighting group.

Special mention is made of our vigorous, capable coach, Mr. Francis McDermott, for his expert direction. In addition, congratulations are extended to the co-captains, George Perkins and Richard Garibotto, for a fine job in piloting the team.

The scores were as follows:

Jan. 6	Burlington 42	Alumni 43	Jan. 31	Burlington 30	Alumni 21
Jan. 9	Burlington 42	Tewksbury 50	Jan. 31	Burlington 31	Am Legion 54

Girls' Basketball

- Row 2: Miss Welch, E. Jones, R. Matto, J. Bayliss, M. Johnson, L. Dupee, E. Miller, C. Powers, J. Duncan, H. McLaughlin.
- Row 1: C. Neilsen, M. Chaplin, L. Plummer, M. Ellsworth, E. Schwartz, J. Graham, J. Reed, B. Murray.

The 1948 girls' basketball team proved itself a very enthusiastic group. Although the girls did not manage to come through the season undefeated, they faced every opponent with sportsmanship and spirit. In each contest they demonstrated their playing ability, and knowledge and understanding of the game. In the post-season tournament at Littleton, they made a fine showing.

The scores for the 1948 season were as follows:

Jan. 6	Burlington 31	Alumnae 17	Feb. 5	Burlington 15	St. Charles 51
Jan. 9	Burlington 29	Tewksbury 24	Feb. 6	Burlington 18	Tewksbury 26
Jan. 14	Burlington 17	Dracut 8	Feb. 10	Burlington 31	Chelmsford 38
Jan. 16	Burlington 33	Howe 43	Feb. 13	Burlington 28	Howe 30
Jan. 20	Burlington 13	Johnson 22	Feb. 17	Burlington 25	Johnson 24
Jan. 27	Burlington 17	Chelmsford 31	Feb. 19	Burlington 21	Wilmington 20
Jan. 30	Burlington 20	Dracut 16

Cheerleaders

Row 2: Miss Welch, R. Casey, B. Packard, E. McGinnis, B. Baumgarten, N. Blenkhorn, K. Rogers, B. Croft.

Row 1: B. Oldford, J. Merrigan, M. Rogers.

The Cheerleaders, this year under the direction of Miss Welch, conveyed a great deal of spirit and enthusiasm to the school and its teams. They made their appearance at all of the school's athletic events, led by Margaret Rogers and Barbara Oldford.

Credit is due them for braving the cold afternoons of the football season to put their tireless efforts into the outcome of the game. Although it seemed impossible to find room on the buses for them, the teams, knowing the importance of the presence at out-of-town games, made room for eight more persons.

At the close of the basketball season, the cheerleaders entered a contest in Littleton. With their new cheers and the confidence gained from steady work, they made a noticeable showing.

The school and its teams showed appreciation of their daily practice by responding when game time came. May Burlington High look forward to another successful year in the field of sports, cheered on by these vivacious girls!

Traffic Officers

Row 3: R. Swanson, R. MacKenzie.

Row 2: C. Gillis, W. Wallace, R. Garibotto, E. Taylor, E. Pedersen.

Row 1: F. Gentile, Mr. Horton, G. Perkins, D. Ellsworth, K. Foster.

This year, for the first time, a squad of traffic officers was organized to keep order in the corridors of the high school. The members of the squad, who were appointed by school officials, were selected after careful consideration. Several boys, outstanding for their leadership, spirit of cooperation, and scholastic ability, were chosen to make up this "pioneer" body.

The officers have been instituted permanently and will serve annually until the time of their graduation. Members of the incoming Sophomore classes will fill vacancies left by Seniors. The group is subject to the supervision of its president, a position held this year by George Perkins. Each member has the power to issue notice of detention to any student found violating the traffic rules.

Although a few energetic pupils have displayed little enthusiasm for this newly organized group, it has proved successful. The vigilance of the squad has restored law and order to the corridors of Burlington High.

Do You Remember?

When Arthur Gould spilled paint on Mr. Gendron's head?

When we had our outings at Canobie Lake?

When we went out to eat after last year's Senior Reception? (We never got there.)

Our rides home on the bus after basketball games?

When Margaret was crazy over basketball players and hockey players?

When Janice and Marian had a talk with Mr. Horton about crazy (funny) bones?

Why so many Senior girls took Aeronautics?

The class play we had in the eighth grade?

All the clothes the girls made in home-economics?

All the football, basketball and baseball games the boys WON?

History classes with Mr. Meade? (How well remembered.)

The parties the Senior girls held? (WOW!)

When a group of Seniors went to Marian's house during gym?

When some of the Senior girls went out to supper and stopped in to see Mr. McDermott?

The SUCCESSFUL roller skating parties the class held?

When Mr. Perkins chased the basketball teams around the back of the school, one night?

When we thought Mr. Lalli was a student? What a surprise the next day brought.

The night eight Senior girls stayed at Marian's house, and broke the beds? (Heavy-weights)

Sending an invitation for our Minstrel Show to Mr. and Mrs. Lalli, when there wasn't any Mrs.?

The looks we got when Miss Haglund and the Senior girls went into the Loew's State one night (dressed in beach clothes)?

Appreciation

In behalf of the Class of 1948, we wish to express our sincere thanks to the patrons and patronesses whose donations made possible the publication of our Year Book. Still further, we wish to extend our gratitude to the business establishments who so kindly chose to advertise in the "Arrow-head." As a reciprocal gesture, we shall do everything in our power to bring them increased patronage.
